

PMP is the Most Respected Project Management Certification Globally

By: Bookmy Training

PMI is also known to be the largest service provider to offer substantial amount of knowledge worldwide. Project Management Institute (PMI) was founded in the year 1969. This organization is also called as a membership community that entirely focuses on the subject of Project Management and its advancement in the long run.

An Insight of PMI:

- Currently PMI is offering five programs, which help in developing of diverse skill sets and making individuals into full-fledged professionals. With this certification you become proficient and competent enough to meet the global market standards.
- PMI's Project Management Professional (PMP)® is today the most popular body in setting the body of standard professionals. It also assures to provide a growing and successful path of career for the people aspiring to become project managers.
- It also helps to maintain professional credentials that are also globally-transferable.
- They help in the progress of advocacy mission along with critical projects and programs in the form of updating as well as creating global standards, university program accreditation and the credential development process.

Role of PMI (Project Management Institute):

- It transforms a novice into a professional and a professional into an expert.
- With different training courses and PMI events it ensures that you attain different sorts of skill sets.
- PMI plays vital role in making the professionals realize where they stand in the market.

American National Standards Institute have accepted and recognized Project Management Institute as one of the organization with progressive development of standards. It is solely due to the reason that PMI today works to develop and maintain distinct and exclusive standards for the professionals. These professional standard holders are then valued not only by their members but also at the global marketplace as well as by the stakeholders. Through this PMI has widely achieved the target of global excellence while offering a project management practice by applying standards that are recognized and are applied worldwide consistently.

Management institutes too have felt the need for soft skill training for their students appearing in placement sessions for more positive results. They are arranging special training sessions on soft skills, etiquette, motivation, anchoring, group discussion, interview and team work etc to be provided by Best Training provider in the market.

In fact, It has really become need of the hour to address soft skill issue. Many students come from small towns to cities to make their career and they face this problem due to improper schooling. Though educational institutes try their level best to help them to overcome this problem with the available resources, no one can give training as effective as the Best Training provider.

There have been cases where even the brightest student fails to pass through the interview because of poor command over soft skills. It is this situation that has given rise to the concept for courses or training workshops on soft skills by Best Training institutes and colleges to make students more eligible.

BookMyTrainings.com is India's #1 training marketplace that provides a platform for training seekers and training providers to come together. The portal lists all the upcoming training programs across cities along with the necessary details of a training session.

Upcoming programs of Project Management Professional (PMP).

About The Author:

Bookmytrainings is a India's #1 training marketplace and qualified Project Management Professional - Institute provides a platform for Training Seekers and Training Providers to come together. More Information:

<http://www.bookmytrainings.com>

Article Source: www.isnare.com